THE TWO PLANS.

SLAVEHOLDERS A PRIVILEGED CLASS

Growth of our Negro Aristocracy.

SPEECH OF GOV. SEWARD,

AT THE REPUBLICAN MEETING AT ALBANY October 12

[CONCLUDED]

Thus we see that the American slaveholders are a privileged class, standing on a special and permanent foundation, and that they are protected in their advantages by the organic law.

I might show a priori that a privileged class, thus established on an exceptional principle that is wrong in itself and antagonistic to the fundamental principle of the government, must necessarily be dangerous if it be suffered to extend and aggrandize itself. But unhappily we are not left to the necessity of resorting to speculation on that subject. The policy of emancipation was set back in this country during the reaction against revolutionary principles, which necessarily attended the reorganization of government, and it was set back still more effectually by the consternation which followed the disastrous failure of the first republic of France. The privileged class promptly availed themselves of the advantages which the constitution afforded to fortify themselves in the federal government. The last federal acts directed against the privileged class, were the abolition of the foreign slave trade after 1807, and the eternal prohibition of slavery in the broad and then unsettled region which extended from the north bank of the Ohio to the eastern shore of the Mississippi. Even the passage of that ordinance was, by its silence, assumed to imply a right on the part of the privileged class to colonize with slaves the region lying south of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi.

Unlooked for events have lent the privileged class advantages which have more than counterbalanced the adverse effects of this early national legislation. The invention of the cotton gun, which easily separates the seeds from the fibre, has made cotton an almost exclusive agricultural staple in the States of the privileged class, and an eminent commercial staple of the whole country. The national territory has necessarily been enlarged from time to time, to accommodate an overgrowing population and an ever increasing commerce. Favored by these circumstances, the privileged class has at the same time found in a home population of slaves in Maryland and Virginia, and other Southern States, a source for the less lucrative African slave trade, and they have not been slothful in availing themselves of the means and dismissing all the timidity and circumspection which marked our conduct during and immediately after the Revolutionary War. The acquisition of Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi and Alabama, which each thing States in turn became admissible, inasmuch as they were the overgrowth of some of the old thirteen States, and thus those new States south of the Ohio, lying along the growing free States north of that river, a sort of barrier was maintained between the privileged and the unprivileged classes, which it was thought not necessary to disturb. This was the first final partition of the unsettled territory of the United States between those classes.

In 1804 France ceded to the United States a broad belt stretching along the western bank of the Mississippi, from the British possessions on the north, to the Spanish province on the south. This acquisition, which was equally necessary for the safety of the country and for the ends of commerce, stimulated the desire of the privileged class for an extension of their territory and an aggrandizement of their power. New Orleans, situated practically on the coast of the Gulf of Mexico, was already at once, an ancient slaveholding colony, and an important commercial mart. It lay contiguous to the slaveholding States. Under these circumstances, it was without any resistance, soon organized and admitted into the Union, with its ancient laws and customs, tolerating slavery. St Louis, though destined to acquire great commercial importance, was, as yet, an inconsiderable town, with few slaveholders and slaves. The Mississippi only divided it from the northwest territory, which was already consecrated to freedom. The best interests of the country required and humanity demanded that the Ordinance of 1787 should be extended across the Mississippi. The privileged class, however, took possession of the region around St. Louis, and made partial settlements lower downon the west bank of the Mississippi. St Louis and its environs matured as a State in 1819, and demanded admission with slavery into the Union. Then, only thirty two years after the passage of the Ordinance of 1787, and after its unanimous ratification by the American people, the privileged class made common cause with the new slaveholding State, and, assuming a tone so bold, insolent and menacing, they denied the power of Congress, although to the territories it was supreme and exclusive in the, limission of new States, to legislate at all against their privileges in the territories, or to refuse admission to a new State, on the ground of its refusal to surrender of abate those privileges, and they threatened in one loud voice to subvert the Union, if Missouri should be rejected. The privileged class were backed then by the Senate of the United States, as they have been backed on all similar occasions since that time. They were met, however, with firmness and decision by the unprivileged class in the House of Representatives, and so Missouri failed then to be admitted as a slave State. The privileged class resorted to a new form of strategy, the strategy of compromise. They be admitted as a slave State, while Congress should prohibit slavery forever in all the residue of that part of the Louisiana purchase which lay north of the parallel of 35° 30min. of north latitude. The territory lying between that parallel and the province of Texas, and constituting what is now the State of Arkansas, being left by implication to slavery. This compromise was accepted, and thus diplomacy obtained for the privileged class immediate advantages which had been denied to their clamor and passion. This compromise, however, could have only the authority of a repealable act of Congress, so far as the prohibition of slavery north of 36deg. 30min. was concerned. Wise and great men contrived extraordinary terms to bind the faith of the privileged class to that perpetual inhibition. They gave to the compromise the nature and form of a contract, with mutual equivalents between the privileged class and the unprivileged class, which it would be dishonorable and perfidious on the part of the privileged class, at any time on any grounds or under any circumstances, to annul or revoke, or even to draw in question. They proclaimed it to be a contract proper to be submitted to the people themselves for their ratification in the popular elections. It was so submitted to the people, and so ratified by them. By virtue of this compromise Missouri came immediately into the Union as a slave State, and Arkansas followed soon afterwards as a slave State, while, with the exception of Missouri, the Ordinance of 1787, by virtue of the same compromise, was extended across the Mississippi, along the parallel of 36deg. 30min. to the Rocky Mountains. Thus, and with such solemnities, was the strife of the privileged class of slaveholders for aggrandizement in territory, a second time, finally composed and forever settled.

It is not my purpose to discuss the policy or the justice of that great settlement. As in the case of the Constitution, the responsibility for that great measure rests with a generation that has passed away. We have to deal with it only as a fact, and with the state of affairs that was established by it.

The occupation of the new region west of the Mississippi, which had thus been saved to freedom, was artfully postponed indefinitely by dedicating it as a home for the concentrated but perishing Indian tribes. It sound in favor of the humanity of the unprivileged class, if not of their prudence, that they neither remonstrated nor complained of that dedication.

The success of the privileged class, in securing to the useless immediate possession of Missouri and Arkansas in exchange for the reversionary interest of the unprivileged class in the remainder of the Louisiana purchase, stimulated them to move for new national purchases of domain, which might yield them further acquisitions. Spain was unable to retain longer the slaveholder provinces of East Florida and West Florida, which lay adjacent to the slave States. They fell to the United States by an easy purchase, and the privileged class with due diligence procured their organization as a State and its admission into the Union. The spell of territorial aggrandizement had fallen on the United States of America, and simultaneously the spell of dissolution had fallen on the United States of Mexico. The privileged class on our side of the border entered Texas, established slavery there in violation of Mexican laws declared that territory from Mexico, and organized it as an independent sovereign state. Texas thus independent and sovereign, sought annexation to the United States. In the very hour when the virtue of a sufficient number of the unprivileged classes was giving way to effect a constitutional annexation of Texas, the President of the United States, with a Senate not less subservient to the privileged class, executed a coup d'etat by which that State unlawfully, and in defiance of all precedent, came into Union under a covenant stipulating that four new slave States might be created out of its territory and admitted as slave States, with, by implication, an indefinite extension of the line north of 36deg. 30min. which is emphatically declared to be free. Thus remained no other new territory within the United States, and only this strange partition of Texas that was called half settlement of the pretensions of the privileged class, and it was acquired by the unprivileged class, who thought to involve security in the old territory by the Ordinance of 1787 and regained it in Kansas and Nebraska by the Missouri Compromise.

The public opinion that followed the annexation of Texas of short duration. Mexico resented that offence. A war ensued and terminated in the transfer of the entire northern portion of Mexico to the United States. The Mexican municipal laws forbade slavery everywhere, and the new possessions were under that law. Not a what the loss for that reason did the privileged class demand either an equal partition, or that the whole should be opened to their colonization with slaves. The House of Representatives resisted these pretensions, as it had resisted similar ones before, but the Senate seconded the privileged class with its accustomed zeal. So Congress was divided and failed to organize civil governments for the newly acquired Mexican Territories, and they were left under martial law. The question raised by the privileged class went down to the electors. The people promptly filled the House of Representatives with a majority sternly opposed to the extension of slavery, the breadth of a single square mile. They increased the force of the unprivileged class in the Senate, while they called to the Presidency General Taylor, who although himself a slaveholder, was committed to non intervention on the question in Congress and to execute faithfully whatever constitutional laws Congress should adopt. Under these circumstances, California and New Mexico, youthful communities, practically free from slavery and uncorrupted by the seduction of the privileged class or of its political organs, hastened to establish constitutions and apply for admission as free States, while the eccentric population of Deseret, indulging latitudinarian principles equally in matters of religion and of politics, prayed to be received into the Union as a State or as a territory, and with or without slavery, as Congress should prescribe. The privileged class remonstrated, and a seditious movement was organized in behalf of the slave holding States to overawe Congress if possible, and to inaugurate Revolution if their menaces failed. You all know well the way of that memorable controversy. How eminent men yielded to the menaces without waiting for the revolution, and projected and tendered to the privileged class a new compromise, modelled after the already time honored compromise of 1820. You all know how timely, notwithstanding this defection of leaders, honored and beloved, the House of Representatives and even the Senate repelled the Compromise, and how firmly the unprivileged class of freemen throughout the Union demanded the unqualified and unconditional admission of California into the Union, and refused to allow any further territories to the privileged class for the extension of the system of human bondage. You all remember, too, how in a critical hour the President sickened and died, and how the hearts of Congress and of all the People swooned at his grave, and thenceforward all was lost. You remember how the provisional successor of that lamented President, with ominous haste accepted the resignation of his Cabinet and committed the seals to a new one, pledged himself to the adoption of the Compromise which the people had condemned, and how at last, after a painful struggle, the adoption was effected. I think, also, that you have not thus soon forgotten the terms of that compromise, the fourth final and everlasting settlement of the conflict between the privileged and unprivileged class of this Republic. You have not forgotten how the Ordinance of 1787, which excluded slavery from the region northwest of the Ohio, was left to stand as an institution too sacred to be even questioned. How the Missouri Compromise, which extended that ordinance across the Mississippi, and all over Kansas and Nebraska, was made at once the authority, precedent and formula of the new compromise, and even declared to be an irrepealable law forever. How California, which refused to become a slave State, was grudgingly admitted into the Union as a free State. How the hateful and detestable slave auctions were banished from under the eaves of the Capitol, quite across to the opposite bank of the Potomac river. And how, in consideration of these magnanimous and vast concessions made by the privileged class, it was stipulated that slavery should be continued in the District of Columbia as long as the privileged class should require its continuance. New Mexico, with her free constitution, was superciliously remanded to her native mountains, while, with out a hearing, her ancient and free territory was dismembered, and its larger part transferred to Texas, with the addition of ten millions of dollars to win its acceptance by that defiant privileged State. You remember how it was solemnly stipulated that Utah and New Mexico, if the slavery they could corrupt them, should come into the Union, in due time, as slave States, and, finally, how the privileged class of Texas, as offended and exasperated, were brought to accept this compromise on their part, by a reenactment of the then obsolete fugitive slave law of 1793, with the addition of the revolting features of an attempted suspension of the habeas corpus, an absolute prohibition of the trial by jury, an effective repeal of vital rules of procedure and evidence, and the substitution of commissioners in place of courts of justice, in derogation of the constitution. You all remember how laboriously and ostentatiously this compromise was associated with the time-honored forms and sanctities of the Missouri Compromise. How it was declared, not the result of mere ordinary legislation, but a contract with mutual equivalents by the privileged with the unprivileged class, irrepealable and even unamendable without perfidy, and even treason against the Constitution and the Union. You all remember how, notwithstanding your protests and mine, it was urgently, violently, clamorously ratified and confirmed, as a full, fair and final and perpetual adjustment by the two great political conventions of the country, representing the whole people of the United States, at Baltimore, in 1852; and how the heroic son of Kentucky was rejected, to bring into the Presidency one who might more safely be trusted to defend and preserve and establish the compromise.

Nevertheless, scarcely one year has elapsed before the privileged class, using some of our own representatives as their instruments, broke up not only this compromise of 1850, but even the compromise of 1820, and the ordinance of 1787 and obtained virtually the declaration of Congress that all these settlements, so far as they were adverse to the privileged class, were unconstitutional usurpations of legislative power.

I do not stop to stigmatize or even to characterize these aggressions. Of what use would it be to charge perfidy, when the lessons we deplore have resulted from our own imbecility and cowardice. I do not dwell on the outrages and so judicially, up in the arbitrous usurpation of the government of Kansas by the slave holders of Missouri, I reason on the barbarous and tyrannical code which they have established for the government of that territory, nor even on the impudent and nefarious conspiracy of the President with the usurpers. Nor will I dwell on this picture, already too dark and too personal humiliations which I draw from it here to yourselves in the exercise of your own affairs.—You are commanded by an unconstitutional law of Congress to seize and deliver up to the members of that privileged class as their fugitive slaves, under pain of imprisonment and forfeiture of your freedom. You may not interpose between the armed slaveholder and the wounded slave to prevent his being murdered, without coming under arrest for treason, nor may you cover his naked and lacerated limbs, except by a shield. You have fought twenty years, and with but partial success, for the Constitutional right to lay your remonstrances on the table of Congress. You may not tell the free slave who reaches your borders that he is free, without being seized by a federal court and carried bound, without a trial or even an accusation, to an imprisonment without bail or mainprise, and without limitation of sentence. Your representatives in either House of Congress must speak with bated breath and humbled countenance in presence of the representatives of the privileged class, lest justice be denied to your old soldiers when they claim their pensions, or to your laborers when they claim the performance of their contracts with the government. The President of the United States is reduced to the position of a deputy of the privileged class employing the treasury and marshalling battalions and ships of war to drive you into the execution of the fugitive slave law on the one hand, while he removes governors and judges at their command, who are just to maintain lawful and constitutional resistance against them in the territory of Kansas. The Vice President of the United States and the Speaker of the House of Representatives are slave men, whom the privileged class can trust in every case. The chair of the judiciary, of the territories, and even of the foreign relations, is intrusted in either House to avowed supporters of that class. Protection is denied to your wool, while it is freely given to the slave holders' sugar. Millions of acres of the public domain are freely given to Alabama for railroads, and even as gratuities, while not a dollar can be obtained to remove the rocks of Hellgate, and the sands of the Overslaugh, on the bars in Lake St. Clair, or at the mouths of your lake harbors. Canada, lying all along your northern borders, must not even be looked upon, lest you may lust after it, while millions upon millions are lavished in war and diplomacy, to annex and spread slavery over Louisiana, Florida, Texas, Mexico, Cuba, and Central America. Your liberty of speech—where is it? You may not, without severe rebuke, speak of despotism in foreign lands lest the slave overhear you on the plantations of the privileged class, or the foreign despots visit them, in retaliation, for your unavailing sympathy. The national flag, the emblem of universal liberty, covers cargoes of slaves not only in your own view, but flaunts defiance over them in foreign ports. Judges of the United States courts, sale under the protection of the President and the Senate, charge grand juries, in advance of any question, that obnoxious and unequal federal laws are constitutional and obligatory, they give counsel to legislative bodies how to frame laws which they will sustain, instead of waiting to review those laws when enacted. They even convert the writ of freedom to an engine of slavery, and they pervert the power of punishing irregularities committed in their presence into the machinery of a tyranny as odious as that of the Star Chamber. The privileged class in Virginia imprison your seamen in their ports, in retaliation for the independence of your executive authorities, and you are already in a doubtful struggle for the right to exclude the traffic of slaves from your own borders.

I will only ask, in concluding this humiliating rehearsal, whether there is not in this privileged country a privileged class; whether it does not stand on an enduring foundation; whether it is not growing stronger and stronger, while the unprivileged class grows weaker and weaker; whether the further growth and extent would not be not merely detrimental but dangerous; and whether there is any hope to arrest that growth and extension hereafter if the attempt shall not be made now?

The change that has become at last so necessary is as easy to be made as it is necessary. The whole number of slaveholders is only 350,000, one hundredth part of the entire population of the country. If you add their parents, children, immediate relatives and dependants, they are two millions—one-fifteenth part of the American people. Slavery is not and never can be perpetual. It will be overthrown either peacefully and lawfully under this constitution, or it will work the subversion of the constitution together with its own overthrow. Then the slaveholders would perish in the struggle. The change can now be made without violence, and by the agency of the ballot box. The temper of the nation is just, liberal, forbearing. It will contribute any money and endure any sacrifice to effect this great and important change—indeed, it is half made already. The House of Representatives is already yours, as it always must be when you choose to have it. The Senate of the United States is equally within your power if you only will persistently for two years, to have it. Notwithstanding all the wrong that has been done, not another slave state can now come into the Union. Make only one year's constant, decisive effort, and you can determine what states shall be admitted.

The evil exists because the evil has become intolerable, and the necessity of a remedy is universally acknowledged. What, then, is wanted? Organization! organization! nothing but organization.

Shall we organize? Why not? Can we maintain the revolution so auspiciously begun without organization? Certainly not. Are you apprehensive of failure because the revolution is not everywhere and at all times equally successful? Was there ever a revolution that was equally successful at all times and everywhere? Certainly not. Do you say that you cannot abolish slavery in the privileged states? We have no need, no purpose, no constitutional power, no duty to do so. Providence has devolved that duty on others, and the organic law leaves it wisely to them. We have power to prevent the extension of slavery in the territories of the Union, and that is enough. Do you doubt that power? Did not the statesmen of 1787 know the bounds of constitutional power? Somebody has municipal power on the unorganized Territories in the Union. Who is it? It is not any foreign state, it is not any of the American states, it is not the people in the territories, it is the Congress of the whole United States; and that power there is supreme.

Are you afraid that the privileged class will not submit? The privileged class are human as they are wise. They know just as well how to submit to just authority, firmly and constitutionally exercised, as they do how to extort unequal concessions by terror from unarmed men. Can the privileged class live without a Union any better than you can? They would not remain and wrangle with you an hour if they could do so. Can they ever hope to obtain another Union so favorable to them as this one, if this should be overthrown? Will they destroy themselves that they may simply do harm to you? Did ever any privileged class commit such absurd suicide as this? Are you alone the keepers of the Union? Have not the privileged class interests as great to maintain in the Union, and are their obligations to maintain it different from your own?

How shall we organize? The evil is a national one. The power and the influence and the organization of the privileged class pervade all parts of the Union. It knows no North nor South, no West, no East. It is stronger today on the bay of San Francisco, surrounded by freemen, than it is on the Chesapeake bay, surrounded by slaves. It is not a sectional but a national contest on which we have entered. Our organization, therefore, must be national one. The means of success are national. We must restore the demoralized virtue of the nation. We must restore the principle of equality among the members of the states—the principle of the sacredness of the absolute and inherent rights of man. We want, then, an organization open to all classes of men, and that excludes none. We want a bold, out spoken, true up hearing organization one that openly proclaims its principles, its purposes and its objects—in fear of God and not of man—like that army which Cromwell led, that established the Commonwealth of England. This is the organization we want.

It is best to take an existing organization that answers to these conditions, if we can find one, if we cannot find one such, we must create one. Not every existing parties by this test. Shall we take the Know Nothing party or the American party, as it now more ambitiously names itself? It is a purely sectional organization. In the privileged states it scouts the principle of the equality of man, and justifies the unbounded claims of the privileged class. In the unprivileged states, it stifles its voice and suppresses your own free speech lest it might be overhard beyond the Potomac. In the privileged states it justifies all the wrongs committed against you. In the unprivileged states it affects to condemn them, but protes they shall not be redressed. I speak not now of its false and prevaricating creed, its unlawful and unchristian oaths, its clandestine councils and its dark conspiracies, its mobs and its murders, proscribing and slaying men for their conscience sake and for the sake of their humanity. I have spoken of them often enough and freely enough heretofore. I say now only that all these, equally unfit this so called American party for any national duty, and qualify it to be, what it has thus far been, an auxiliary Swiss corps, engaging the friends of freedom in premature skirmishes at one time, and decoying them into ambushes prepared by their enemies at another. Let it pass by.

Shall we unite ourselves to the democratic party? If so, to which section or faction? The Hards, who are so stern in defending the aggressions of the privileged class, and in rebuking the administration through whose agency they are committed? Or the Softs, that protest against these aggressions, while they sustain and invigorate it administration? Shall we suppose the democratic party reunited and consolidated? What is it then but the same party which has led to the commission of all these aggressions, save one, and which urged, counselled and co-operated in that, and claims, exclusively, the political benefits resulting from it? Let the democratic party pass.

Shall we report ourselves to the whig party? Where is it? Gentle Shepherd, tell me where? Four years ago it was a strong and vigorous party, honorable for energy and noble achievements, and still more for noble enterprises. In 1852 it was invited and counselled, and moved by pains and fears to emulate the democratic party in its practised subserviency to the privileged class, and it yielded in spite of your remonstrances and ruins. The privileged class who had debauched it, abandoned it, because they knew that he could not vie with its rival in the humiliating service it proffered them, and now there is neither whig party nor whig south of the Potomac.

How is it in the unprivileged states? Out of New York, the lovers of freedom, disgusted with its profanation, forsook it, and marched into any and every other organization. We have maintained it here, and in its purity, until the sliders and abettors of the privileged classes, in retaliation, have wounded it on all sides, and it is now manifestly no longer able to maintain and carry forward alone and unaided, the great revolution that it inaugurated. He is unfit for a statesman, although he may be a patriot, who will cling even to an honored and faithful association, when it is reduced so low in strength and numbers as to be entirely ineffectual until the contest of great parties by which republics are saved. Any party, when reduced so low, must ultimately dwindle, and dwarf into a mere faction. Let, then, the whig party pass. It committed a grievous fault, and grievous y hath it answered it. Let it march out of the field, therefore, with all the honors.

The principles of true Democrats and the principles of true whigs remain throughout all changes of parties and of men, and, so far as they are sound, may are necessarily the same. Such true democrats and true whigs are now ready to unite on those sound principles common to both. Neither of these two classes can or ought to insist on forcing a defective organization, with a stained banner, upon the other. The Republican organization has sagaciously seen this, and magnanimously laid a new, sound and liberal platform, broad enough for both classes to stand upon. Its principles are equal and exact justice; its speech open, decided and frank. Its banner is unfurled in former battles and unsullied by past errors. That is the party for us. I do not know that it will always, or ever long, preserve its courage, its moderation and its consistency. If it shall do so, it will rescue and save the country. If it, too, shall become unfaithful, as all preceding parties have done, it will, without sorrow or regret on my part, perish as they are perish, and, and will give place to another, truer and better one.

So long as the Republican party shall be firm and faithful to the constitution, the Union and the rights of man I shall serve it, with the reservation of personal independence, which is my last right; but at the same time with the zeal and devotion that patriotism allows and enjoins. I do not know, and personally I do not greatly care, that I shall work out its great ends this year or the next, or in my lifetime, because I know that those ends are ultimately sure, and that time and trial are the elements which make all great reformations sure and lasting.

I have not thus far acted for personal ends or temporary fame, and I shall not begin so late to live or labor for them. I have hoped that I might live my country somewhat worthier of a lofty destiny, and with somewhat safer guarantees for the equal rights of men. A reasonable amount of success must always be attended with sincere and practical endeavors. If among those who shall come after us, there shall be any curious inquirer who may chance to search out the public character, he shall be obliged to confess that however unsuccessful I have labored for generous ends, yet that I was ever faithful—ever hopeful.

A "Third Candidate"—for the benefit of Frank Pierce.

The Bath Tribune, a paper sold out to the Strait Whigs that before election, and the organ of that party in the section of the State where it is published, replying to a characteristic article in E. K. Smart's Free Press, after intimating to Ephraim that he is a little too fast, has the following

"The nomination of Frank Pierce by the Democratic National Convention, and Seward's nomination by the Republicans, would give a very large vote for a nominee of the right stamp, whose democratic policy would promise to be such as not to unseal the fountains of agitation, after they had once been closed up; and whose foreign policy would be such as to maintain our nation's dignity and rights without bullying the weaker, without toadying to the stronger, and without keeping our whole country in a perpetual fear of being plunged, the next moment into foreign wars."

Precisely! This is the course pursued by the party in the last campaign, and what perhaps to expect of it in the next. This year they did not vote directly or Judge Wells, but voted in a manner that would contribute indirectly but hope to less surely to his election. So next year they do not all propose to vote for Frank Pierce with all his iniquity, outright, but run a third candidate in Reed, and thus aid indirectly in the election of this same Frank Pierce. This is the inevitable result of such a course and they very well know it. They have not the least idea of electing this third candidate, neither will they pretend to do it; they hardly hope to carry a single State. Their intention is merely to aid in the election of Pierce and the defeat of that true Whig, pure patriot and friend of humanity W. H. Seward, thus contributing to the advancement of a line of policy, they pretend to deprecate. This is whiggery par excellence, in '54. What would have been the right of it in '14? The Strait Whigs intend repeating Seward in 1856, as the liberty party near their parallels in political action defeated every Clay in 1844. Of all the trickling in politics, this is the most foolish.

If the Strait Whigs desire the re-election of Pierce and an extension of his policy, foreign and domestic, if they desire to see slavery planted upon our free territory, cursing it with its withering blight if they are warmly in love with the doctrine of Judge Kane, which makes every State a slave State, if they wish to see slavery national and dominant in this Republic, let them support him and his policy, fairly and squarely as a portion of them intend to do, and not resort to the subterfuge of running a third candidate for the accomplishment of their designs. The end and aims of the Republicans are different. They wish to restore the government to its primitive policy; what it was under the administration of Washington, Adams and Jefferson, when slavery was contained and treated as a temporary evil. For this they will labor earnestly and to the end; and while they expect to meet with the most decided and bitter opposition, yet it is but justice to all that this opposition should be open and above board. The course of the Free Press is more manly than that proposed by the Tribune.

But allowing there was a show of sincerity in the proposition of electing a third nominee of the right stamp, whose domestic policy would promise to be such as not to unseal the fountains of agitation," allowing even the probability of his election, and of his carrying out the Buchanan policy of keeping quiet, of yielding to every demand of the South, for the term of four years, what good would have we that it will be continued beyond that time. Is there even a probability that it will, be the compact of thirty-four years standing can be unsealed, repealed and rendered at naught, what can we hope for a compact or line of policy of only four years standing? With such an admission as the Tribune would see inaugurated—one crying peace when there is no peace—one ever ready to yield to every demand of the South—we can hope for no permanent quiet.

In the estimation of the Tribune, no doubt, the administration of Mr. Fillmore was a model one; yet at the very threshold of its successor, we find the doors of agitation open wider than ever. What reason have we to expect different results to follow a similar administration?

It is folly to talk of a finality in this matter of slavery, while the South understand that they can make further aggressions with impunity. There can be no finality, except such as shall be founded on the eternal principles of justice and right, and the policy of deferring such a settlement, leaving the perplexing question for final adjustment to another generation, is weak and cowardly. This neglecting and refusing to do right, lest a portion of our countrymen may throw themselves into a passion and shatter the existence of the Republic, partaken of the spirit, which in the days of the revolution so manfully combatted wrong and oppression, and at length gave us our liberties. The Republican party simple ask what is right, and what nearly the entire North, at least, admit as right—that it every shall be kept within its present limits. They will strive unceasingly for the establishment of this principle, believing that upon it depends the future welfare and prosperity of our beloved country.

To the Editors of the Whig and Courier

The Hancock County Court—Charles Lowell's Practice and Persecutions.

Ellsworth Court House, Oct. 26, 55.

Gentlemen—Court is in full blast. The Hancock County people, like other people, have a propensity for litigation. Long cases and enough of them. Only think, dear old friend, Counsellor Lowell, the Magnus Apollo of the Bar, has entered at this term between 40 and 50 actions, and is counsel in about 100. Enough to make a man rich—or poor, according to the quality of the suits. But Mr. Lowell's, I understand, are fat ones; and all his many admirers in Penobscot will we gratified at his prosperity. They will regret to learn, however, that one of the people's Justices of the Peace in this county, feeling himself tremendously aggrieved and insulted by a severe castigation, given him in a card sent out to the public by Mr. Lowell, because of a decision of his in one of Mr. Lowell's cases, contrary to that gentleman's views of right and justice, has set about to get the veteran indicted! Think of that ye friends of Charles Lowell, in Penobscot. Yes, set about to get that venerated, discriminating member of the Bar indicted! Well, all I have to say in regard to such an effort, to disgrace the great Author and Counsellor is, that I hope his failure will be equal to his deserts.

Yours &c.

Da Bene Esse.

P. S.—I understand from Mr. Lowell, that the attempt to get him indicted has succeeded.

☞ Much credit is due to Messrs. Patten, Wilder, Fowler, and other members of the Business Committee, for the successful arrangements they made, at short notice, for the Collation at the close of the Musical Association on Friday evening. Several of the Ladies very obligingly exerted themselves in arranging the tables.

The room over the main Hall of the new Market House, where the Collation was provided, is well adapted for that purpose. After it is plastered, and gas introduced, it will be a convenient feature of the building.

Mr. Seward's Speech.—The Washington Union prints Seward's Republican speech in full, and the Star, the junior Administration organ, says with significance and pertinence, that the South had better answer Mr Seward by "a reason and irrefragible history, and not by calling its author disreputable names, otherwise the results no telling what may be the result of his, of late years, so rapidly increasing power and influence."

The Kennebec and Portland Railroad Company will run a train on Saturday evenings from Portland to Bath and Augusta, leaving Portland at 7 45 P. M. In consequence of this arrangement the 7 o'clock train on Monday mornings from Portland east, will be discontinued.

We learn that Rev Rendall Crooks, late Professor in Waterville College, has become pastor of the Baptist Church in Fitchburg, Mass.

☞ "A Stockholder's" communication will appear to-morrow.

Indiana.—The Pierce democrats are pretending that they have gained a victory in Indiana, the following from a responsible citizen of Lafayette, Indiana, shows that the Nebraska is under a mistake:

I see the democracy abroad are claiming the election in this State as a great triumph. There is not one word of truth in it. The election was entirely a local one. In many of the counties there were but one or two unimportant offices to be filled. The old whigs took little interest and but few came to the polls. The canvass will show a very small vote. In this county (Tippecanoe) there was a district judge elected. The candidates on both tickets were whigs. The democrats nominated a whig, and he was elected. In several counties there were union tickets, and the democracy, in counting their gains, claim all those so elected as gains for them. The liquor question had more to do in bringing about the result than anything else.

From Fort Laramie.—St. Louis, Oct. 26.—We have dates from Fort Laramie to the 29th ult. Gen. Harney was to leave Fort Laramie on the 20th, to establish a new fort on White Earth River, to overawe the Minnesaye Indians, the most hostile tribe in the country. The Brule Indians have agreed to deliver to Gen. Harney the murderers of the mail party, and hereafter to keep within their own boundaries. The chief, Little Thunder, was not killed at Blue Water. The impression at Laramie is that there will be no more fighting.

The Court Martial ordered for the trial of Col. Hoxie, had dissolved without proceeding to business, on account of some irregularity.

Substance of the verdict of a recent coroner's jury, on a man who died in a state of inebriation, was: "Death by hanging—round a rum shop."

New York, Oct. 24. A letter in the Sun, from Port au Prince, states that the barque Amelia from St. Joseph's, Fla., had been seized at the former place by the American Consul, for having a prohibited cargo on board. Her lading consisted of wine and merchandise.

STATE OF MAINE.

BY THE GOVERNOR.

A PROCLAMATION

FOR A DAY OF

Public Thanksgiving and Praise

With the advice of the Executive Council, I hereby appoint THURSDAY, the twenty-second day of November next, to be observed in this State as a day of Public Thanksgiving and Praise.

Another year has rolled by, and we are again, through Infinite Goodness, enjoying the rich fruits of an abundant autumnal harvest. The labors of the husbandman have been bountifully rewarded, and the industry of our citizens generally favored and blest. Health has been uninterrupted by pestilence, and the destroying angel, that has so fearfully afflicted other communities in sister States, has, under Providence, mercifully spared the people of this Commonwealth.

For these, and the innumerable blessings we are enjoying, let our hearts be devoutly thankful—from every altar let Thanksgiving and Songs of Praise ascend to that God from whom these blessings flow. Let this festival be improved by the people of this State, for the advancement of the cause of Humanity, Virtue and Christianity. Let the poor and the oppressed be remembered and alleviated, and the day be wholly spent as wisdom shall direct and God approve and bless.

Given at the Council Chamber, at Augusta, this fourth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-five and of the Independence of the United States the eighteenth.

ANSON P. MORRILL

By the Governor:

Aden Jackson, Secretary of State.

[From the Albany Evening Journal, Oct. 22.]

Another Bogus Insurance Company.—Comptroller Cook having reason to believe that the Lontine Insurance Company of the City of New York was inadequate to a proper discharge of the duties it had assumed, ordered an investigation into its affairs. The report of the Commissioner, Mr. Barnes, is given in another column. The report proves this Company, like several others recently exposed, to have been fraudulently organized, and to have been transacting business without capital.

To enable them to make the required oath, the Company borrowed John Tompson's check for $200,000, for the use of which, for a few days, they agreed to pay $2,500. When the certificate was procured, the borrowed capital was withdrawn, and the Company proceeded to transact business, to appoint agents and issue policies, without a dollar in its treasury!

And now, after being in operation six months, their books show a capital, in mortgages, &c., of $5,000, with liabilities exceeding $100,000!

The Comptroller is making thorough, searching work among the fraudulent Insurance Companies which, but for these fearless and seasonable exposes, would have carried wide-spread loss and suffering throughout and State.

The number of these rotten companies and the magnitude of their swindles, should and doubtless will, induce the utmost caution on the part of persons seeking protection. There is no safety while the public are unable to discriminate between sound and bubble companies but in the watchfulness and energy of the Comptroller, who fortunately secured the passage of a law last winter that enables him to winnow bushels of chaff from kernels of wheat.

Arrival of Steamship Africa. The steamship Africa reached her wharf at East Boston Thursday evening.

The latest letters from the camp are to Sept. 27th. The following extracts show the present position of affairs. The correspondent of the London Times says:

"The position of the allied armies has since the fall of Sebastopol, materially very little altered. They form now on this side one long line, which runs nearly straight from west to east, beginning at the harbor of Sebastopol, and following the course of the Tchernaya to Aisu, then going over to the plateau to the south of Orembash, and crowning the heights which enclose the valley of Baidar to the north, up to the point where the road leads from Dazu over the Sturmkara mountain to the Upper Belbec. The French, who occupy this position in our extreme right, are thus in possession of the heights which lend out of the valley of Baidar to the rear of the Russians. They hold the two only roads, one to the right, which goes to Karkout and Koluiez, and the other to the left, which runs by Orembash into the Tchoulou valley, and from there to the defiles of Aitodar and Mangup Kale. The Russians are still down at Mackul, which is situate in the gorge formed by one of the feeders of the Belbek. They are, however, evidently only a strong grande garde, a few battalions, and the usual accompaniment of Cossacks.

Both the roads which lead up from the valley of Baidar to the north are only country roads, still of course, nearly impassable in winter or after rain. Having taken up this offensive position, the French, with their usual foresight, have begun to make them both practicable for the march of an army.

All these positions have been occupied by the French without anything worth the name of a fight. They were only occupied by Cossack videttes, who, as usual, at the approach of a force, retreated. We have evidently not come to the line which the Russians intend to defend."

Congratulatory.—The Republican State Central Committee of Ohio, tender to their friends throughout the State and nation, their warm and cordial congratulation on the event of the canvass now just closed—an event as glorious in its results as the triumph is complete.

[After recating the political fruits of the victory, the Committee say:]

We feel that in such a result, we are warranted in calling upon our friends, and the friends of freedom everywhere to rejoice with us. We regard this result as one of the most signal civic triumphs ever achieved, a triumph of principle over the combined power of party, faction and prejudice. A triumph, the effects of which are by no means limited to the boundaries of our State. It must exert a moral influence that will tell for freedom wherever it shall be proclaimed.

The Committee regard it as proper that a result so auspicious to good should be marked by more than an ordinary demonstration; and would say to their Republican friends of the country, who have so nobly contributed to this illustrious consummation, that measures are about being taken for an appropriate Popular Demonstration of joy, in which every Republican of Ohio will be cordially invited to participate. The jubilee will be held at Columbus, on some day prior to the 1st of December, of which further notice may be expected.

By order of the Rep. State Cent. Com.

The Indicted Officials.—New York, Oct. 26.—In the Court of Over and Terminer this afternoon, the case of Alderman Herrick, one of the indicted officials, was given to the jury, but they were unable to agree on a verdict, and were discharged.

A western editor declares that some of the young women who pass his village in the arks, on the river, are perfect divinities. "He means" says a southern contemporary, "dark angels."

Verdict of a Murder Trial. In the United States Circuit Court, in the case of James H. Armstrong, colored steward of bark Kilby for the murder of Wm. Thompson, the mate, the jury, after a charge from Judge Curtis, returned with a verdict of manslaughter.

From Mexico—Resignation of President Alvarez.—New Orleans, Oct. 25.—Late advices from Mexico report that Gen. Alvarez, owing to his advanced years and feeble health, had resigned the Presidency, and that Gen. Comonfort had been chosen in his place.

Individual Management—versus National Mismanagement. John Bull has always prided himself upon his superiority. To use the words of Sam Slick, an Englishman thinks "that when nature forged him she broke the mould,—there never was, never can, and never will be another like him."

No country has more reason to be proud of her men of business and enterprising merchants than Great Britain, at the same time no nation has greater need to lament the utter incompetency of her officials, and to deplore the want of energy which seems to pervade every class of the Queen's servants. Officials without offices, offices without officials.

Let us now take the case of an individual who has earned for himself a world-wide fame—we refer to Professor Holloway. Having discovered an efficacious remedy for nearly "every ill that flesh is heir to," he has by his own exertions gradually, but surely, disseminated his remedies through every part of the known world. Commencing with London as his central point, he has by dint of perseverance, tact and energy (the sure signs of a master-mind,) made known his Pills and Ointment to the very extremes of the compass—Whether you travel north, east, west, or south, you cannot pick up a newspaper that does not record the successes achieved by this wonderful and indefatigable man. There is no instance on record of any public man having ever approached to such a world wide celebrity as has Professor Holloway. We speak not of his medicines at present, although we have indubitable reasons for believing that they have been proved by thousands to be invaluable, but of the enterprise and skill in the system of advertising pursued by Professor Holloway, who has thus by a perfect knowledge of business, and an enlarged view, succeeded where thousands have failed, either from want of judgment or encumbered means. Take again the Professor's extensive reading rooms at his establishment in London, why there is not one in the world to be compared to it. With the utmost regularity and care, every foreign paper that issues from the press is carefully filed, and so complete is the system that the visitor, from amongst this multitudinous mass of literature, can be immediately accommodated with any foreign newspaper he may require, and this, too, gratuitously—These reading rooms are daily visited by statesmen, merchants, and capitalists, who can thus acquaint themselves on any matter they may require, So much for individual management.

What a contrast does this present to the plodding routine adopted by the British Government? What a slur to the country which produces such men of enterprise, that its affairs of State should be so slovenly performed. Our readers cannot fail to perceive that the foregoing lines do indeed reveal a startling instance of "Individual Management versus National Mismanagement."

G. W. STONE'S

LIQUID CATHARTIC

—AND—

FAMILY PHYSIC,

The most important discovery ever made in Medical Science, being a compound of Barks and Roots, which forms the most powerful, safe, and agreeable physic ever offered to the public

THIS new city church medicine has long been felt by its friends and physicians to be a great blessing to the sick of families and physicians. Its advantages over pulverized pills or powders of other Physicians must be obvious to every intelligent person. It operates in so mild a manner and effectually upon the system, and at the same time is so far from being a laxative or a cathartic, as to be generally preferable to the latter. It not only purifies all the dirty humors from the blood, it is completely a sure cure for the Piles, Regulates the action of the Liver, cures the disorders from Biliousness, invigorates the whole Nervous System and removes the cause of all local pains, such as Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Tic Doloureux, Gout, Pains in the Head, Side, Stomach, &c

It may also be relied upon in all diseases of the Bowels—DYSENTERY, DIARRHŒA AND CHOLERA MORBUS, yield to its magical influence. Again we repeat, THE PILLS ARE NO BETTER THAN OTHERS. No family will be without it after they have properly tested its merits. Reader, if you have tried other remedies, without success, despair not—return to health. Are you suffering from Scrofula, or Salt Rheum? Use Liquid Cathartic will cure you. Would you be relieved from habitual Costiveness, three bottles will effect an entire cure. If you are afflicted with Rheumatic, Neuralgic, or other bone pains, two bottles will cure you in three weeks. All humors will be eradicated from the blood by the use of from one to six bottles. In short, if you require a physic for any purpose, this is the most reliable, safe, and agreeable medicine that has ever been placed within the reach of the public

IMPORTANT PROCLAMATION!

A Great Mystery Explained.

In the list of our Lord 1847, in our apartments of analytical chemists, we discovered that by uniting certain vegetable agents, which had never before been used in medicine, we obtained properties possessing such a marvellous quick power over PAIN, that the moment it was applied to the parts afflicted with pain, all uneasiness ceased The most torturing pains were relieved in an instant, and the most painful spasms and irritations were soothed, and the system restored to perfect ease in a few minutes

In 1849 we introduced this Remedy to the world under the name of

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF

It has been used by hundreds of thousands throughout the United States, giving instant ease to all troubled with Pain or Sickness

One application externally, or a few drops taken internally, will instantly relieve the sufferer from the most violent and terrible pains, and restore the weak, feeble, and prostrated frame to strength and vigor

No person has ever used RADWAY'S READY RELIEF without derriving some special benefit in less than fifteen minutes after its use

Let those who are now suffering any severe pains give it a trial, for in fifteen minutes they will enjoy ease and comfort

was the first and is the only remedy ever discovered that will stop the most torturing pains in a few seconds and free the system from Rheumatic, Neuralgic, Nervous, and Muscular Disorders in a few hours If will cure and protect the system against sudden attacks of

CHOLERA, DYSPEPSY,
MORBUS, DIARRHŒA,
BRONCHITIS, FEVER AND AGUE,
PNEUMONIA, INFLUENZA

Bear in mind, it is a powerful Disinfectant, antiseptic, diffusive stimulant, nervine, anti spasmodic, and counter irritant

The R. R. REMEDIES are medical discoveries of the present century They are prepared on an entire new and original theory, "to stop pain instantly," and protect the human system against sickness or any sudden attacks. The doses required to be taken are small A few drops of READY RELIEF expresses a powerful influence over diseased action.

IT HAS CURED

Rheumatism in four hours,
Neuralgia in one hour,
Cramp in ten minutes,
Diarrhœa in fifteen minutes,
Toothache in one second,
Spasms in five minutes,
Sick Headache in fifteen minutes,
Chill Fever in fifteen minutes,
Chilblains in five minutes,
Sore Throat in four minutes,
Influenza in one hour

SPINAL COMPLAINTS, Stiff Joints, Cuts, Bruises, Wounds, Frost Bites, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Tic Doloreux, and all other complaints where there are severe pains, RADWAY'S READY RELIEF will instantly stop the pain, and quickly cure the disease

[For the remarkable efficacy of R. R. R. Discovery, No. and the complaints cured by Radway's Renovating Resolvent, see in next week's paper.]

DR. J. H. SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC,

—FOR THE—

Cure of Dyspepsia.

THIS remedy is composed of a compound preparation of a common weed growing along the sea shore, and is a certain remedy for the cure of Dyspepsia and its accompanying diseases, such as

Sour and Sad Stomach, Loss of Appetite, Headache, Pain in the Side and Breast, Palpitation of the Heart, Dryness and Irritation of the throat, Cough and Fever, Scanty and Dark Colored Urine, and Diseases of the Kidneys, Nervousness, Heartburn, Costiveness, Dizziness of the Head, Vomiting Spells, and all nervous complaints to females

Nearly every person is more or less affected with Dyspepsia, or some of the diseases connected with it, and it is with feelings of pleasure that Dr Schenck can announce to the public the discovery of the virtues of the Sea Weed, which is just the remedy for their ailment Dyspepsia and the many diseases arising from the effect of the imperfect secretion of the gastric juice, and weakness of the powers of the stomach The effect of the Sea Weed Tonic is felt soon after it is taken and supplies at once the principles of the different gastric juices, and the food digests naturally In fact the Tonic so nearly resembles the natural gastric juice that chemists even find difficulty in distinguishing them It gives tone and strengthens the stomach thus enabling it to secrete the proper quality and quantity of Gastric juice, and Dyspepsia and its diseases soon disappear

It is a well ascertained fact that more suffer like the Dyspeptic from debility in the Liver than any other ailment, and it is often either liver complaint, Sour and Sick Stomach, Pain in the Side, Palpitation of the Heart, Cough and Fever, Gravel, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Weakness and Irritation, Costiveness, Dullness, Loss of Appetite, Bad Taste in the mouth, Stoppage in the Throat, all or any of these arise from a disordered state of the Stomach and Liver and is a newly discovered remedy for all this, and costs but a dollar that will use all the time or less not

Now, Dyspeptic will you not avail yourselves of this remedy for so trifling a cost or will you still suffer on? The choice is for you to make The Sea Weed Tonic is a pleasant bitters and will give you a good appetite and good digestion is put up in quart bottles, always serves with the stomach and one bottle generally effects a cure When once the bowels are regulated, the tongue furred or the complexion sallow a few of Schenck's Mandrake or Liver Pills are to be used. A box of these Pills accompany each bottle of the Tonic, and will be found in a recess of the bottle, covered with a label

MANDRAKE PILLS

Will be found to possess those qualities necessary to the total eradication of all bilious attacks, prompt to start the secretions of the liver and give a healthy tone to the entire system. Indeed, it is no ordinary discovery in Medical Science, to have invented a remedy for those stubborn complaints, which develope all the results produced by a heretofore free use of calomel—a mineral death dreaded by mankind—and acknowledged to be dearer to them than the extreme to the human system. That the properties of certain vegetables comprise all the virtues of calomel, without its injurious tendencies is now an admitted fact, rendered indisputable by scientific researches and those who use the Mandrake Pill, will be fully satisfied that the best medicines are those provided by nature in the common roots and herbs of the field

The Pills open the bowels and correct all bilious derangements without salivation, or any of the injurious effects of calomel or other poisons The secretion of bile is promoted by these Pills, as will be seen by the altered color of the stools, and the appearing of the sallow complexion and cleansing of the tongue

Ample directions for use accompany each box of Pills and the price of a quart bottle of the Sea Weed Tonic and box of Pills combined is only one dollar But separate boxes of Pills can be had of any of the agents for 25 cents

These remedies are prepared under the personal supervision of Dr J H Schenck, proprietor of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, the well established remedy for Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, &c, &c, and the inventor of the celebrated Respiratory, for examining and detecting all diseases of the Lungs, Heart, &c
